The following table shows the results of the experiment. The first column is the number of trials, the second column is the number of correct responses, and the third column is the percentage of correct responses. The data shows that the percentage of correct responses increases as the number of trials increases, indicating that the subject is learning the task.

The data shows that the subject is learning the task and is able to perform it with increasing accuracy over time. The percentage of correct responses increases from 0% at trial 1 to 2500% at trial 100. This indicates that the subject is able to learn the task and is able to perform it with increasing accuracy over time.
